Members Uncover Rare Holly Hill Photos

Members Dean Wiggins and Rex Stearns visited the Daytona State College Southeast Museum of Photography to research its collection of Holly Hill photographer E.G. Harris photos from the late 1800's. They are helping to identify and catalog them for the Museum collection. Thank you to Curator James Pearson for allowing us access to them and his help in preserving them. We look forward to a future program which will present these rare photos not shown in over a century.
